

GYNAECOLOGICAL SERVICE FOR BALMAIN

Dr Roger McMaster-Fay, a Senior Gynaecologist (MRCOG, FRANZCOG) and Endoscopic Surgeon from western Sydney (Westmead and Penrith) has opened rooms in Balmain. From Tuesday 7th July, 2009 and every second Tuesday thereafter, Dr McMaster-Fay will be consulting at Suite 17 in the Loyalty Square Centre, 2 Beattie Street, Balmain. Appointments can be made by phoning (02) 9891 5466.

Dr McMaster-Fay practises general Gynaecology (not Obstetrics) with a particular interest in endometriosis and pelvic floor prolapse, as well as infertility, pelvic pain, fibroids and abnormal bleeding. He sees female patients of all ages. He is happy to have partners (of either sex), relatives or friends to attend with the patient for support.

Dr McMaster-Fay performs advanced endoscopic surgery, particularly Laparoscopic Hysterectomy and pelvic floor repair. On these procedures he has published papers and given presentations both nationally and internationally. He is a Clinical Lecturer at the University of Sydney.

Dr McMaster-Fay also has a large practice in Gynaecological Endocrinology with particular interest in hormone replacement therapy (HRT) and polycystic ovarian syndrome (PCOS). He has substantial experience in the use of both oestrogen and testosterone for HRT.

Dr McMaster-Fay understands the importance of good communication skills with his patients. 'Informed consent' is pivotal to his practice and he will spend as much time as is necessary, in order that the patients have a clear understanding of their illness and the therapeutic alternatives available to them. Ultimately it is the patient who decides which therapy they will undergo. Dr McMaster-Fay would encourage any woman with female problems to visit his website at www.rfay.com.au, as many of his patients have found it very informative.

Dr McMaster-Fay is very comfortable working in conjunction with 'complementary' or 'alternative' therapies and their Therapists. He feels these therapies are playing an evermore important role in health care.

By introducing a Gynaecological Clinic to Balmain, Dr McMaster-Fay brings to the area a quality 'women's service' backed by many years of clinical and surgical experience.
